Rosh Hashanah: A New Creation?

As this is my first article, I want to thank everyone for welcoming me to CBI over the last few weeks, and to all who have provided me with help and information to assist me. It is no small task coming in a few weeks before the High Holidays, getting up to speed, and staying on top of things. Even under the best of circumstances, the onrush of fall holidays can be overwhelming, and all the more so at a new congregation. I look forward to getting to know you all better over the next weeks and months, and I'm sure there will be many new names and faces during the upcoming holidays - please bear with me as I try to learn which name goes with which face.

As you read this, those holidays are probably coming up quickly. As a rabbi, getting ready for the holidays is very involved, especially with a Mahzor that is new to me. It's very easy for me to get caught up in all the logistics and technicalities of planning and running the services, and lose sight of the purpose of these holidays. I expect it is similar for those who are organizing special holiday gatherings for family and friends.

Rosh Hashanah is a fascinating holiday, as the only thing the Torah really tells us is to observe a festive day of rest on that date, commemorated through blasts (and it does not even explicitly say to use a shofar). Out of that little information, we have built such a major holiday! Contrary to the "common wisdom," Rosh Hashanah is technically not the "Jewish New Year." Indeed, the only time the Torah mentions anything like that, "the head of ... the months of the year for you," it is in connection with what we now call the month of Nissan, where Pesach falls - in the spring, not the fall!

Indeed, the appropriately named tractate of the Talmud of "Rosh Hashanah" describes four different "New Year"s on the Jewish calendar for different purposes. The one in the spring is effectively the "Jewish New Year," the anniversary of the Exodus when we went free and became the Jewish people. So then what is the "new year" we are celebrating in the fall? It is the anniversary of Creation - the birthday of the world, and as such, even though it is primarily observed by Jews, it has more of a universal focus. It would be better labelled "the new year for the world according to Judaism" than the "Jewish New Year", though I admit that's a bit of a mouthful.

The Torah's one unique ritual for this holiday, sounding blasts, is most likely as a prelude to Yom Kippur (which it discusses in more depth) - a sort of wake-up call to prepare ourselves. Rosh Hashanah does remain very much that in modern times, but it also has its own themes, hearkening back to Creation, but also looking forward towards a future Redemption (which at least some prophets see as a new Creation). These themes are especially embodied in the three unique sections of the Rosh Hashanah Amidah, found only during the Musaf ("extra") service: Malkhuyot (God's dominion over all creation), Zikhronot (remembrance), and Shofarot (the blasts heard during the Sinai revelation and heralding a Messianic Era).

There is no denying, though, that the themes of repentance, atonement, and forgiveness also spill over from Yom Kippur to Rosh Hashanah, and, in fact, even earlier than that, because traditions have developed for the days and weeks leading up to these holidays, such as blowing the shofar each morning, reciting Psalm 27, and reciting S'lichot poems/prayers. But these are not just rituals to be performed - they are a means to an end, though it is easy to lose sight of that.

The period leading up to and including the High Holidays is a time for "cheshbon ha-nefesh," literally "the accounting of the soul." We are supposed to set aside some time to look back at the year and our relationships with both other humans and with God. We need to take each relationship and evaluate where we need to make course-corrections and what we can do better, interpersonally, ethically, and religiously. What are our strengths and weaknesses? If we need to make amends, this is the time to do it. If we are not sure if we have inadvertently offended someone, this is the time to ask. Our tradition is that God cannot forgive for offenses between one person and another until forgiveness is first granted by the offended party.

The High Holidays are not a time for empty ritual; they require us to work on repairing relationships and ourselves, and to deepen our connection with God and our fellow humans. I encourage you to take this opportunity that Judaism so wisely gives us to re-create our own worlds on the anniversary of Creation, looking both backwards and forwards.

Rabbi Aaron Marsh

Long and Winding Roads

Rabbi Aaron Marsh is now leading our congregation! It was a long and winding road to get here. I owe many thanks to VP Paul Causman, Miriam Beckerman, Rabbinic Search Committee Co-Chairs Meira Zucker and Ian Katz, plus Committee members Adam Davis, Bonnie Berland, Bill Garber, Helen Grubb, Rhoda Miller, Jim Sack, Josh Sherman and David Weinberg for their time and commitment! Josh Sherman gets more accolades – along with friend Zack Liber – for helping the Rabbi move the heavy stuff into his home.

I've received numerous compliments on my initial July column about volunteering at CBI. Each time, I respond: "I don't want accolades, just more volunteers." When I told some current volunteers about my emphasis on getting others to join them, they answered: "Good luck with that!" That tells me the same people are doing the work, while others expect someone else to do it. That long and winding road of going "From Strength to Strength" won't pave itself, folks. I'm aching for a single congregant to tell me that they heard my call to action.

Fortunately, there are more current volunteers whom I haven't thanked: Sue Richards coordinates canasta each week; Cathy Sperling catalogs our very diverse library (check it out!) and receives your book donations; Fran Weinblatt dreams up trips like August's fascinating National Museum of the Great Lakes and our August volunteers for Connecting Kids to Meals, who were Sophia and Hannah Chernow, Shelli Johnson, Jack Katz, Darlene and Mike Portnoy, Joanne Rubin, Judy Weinberg, Fran (of course) and Sue Wilson. These folks helped pave the long and winding road.

You read my Kol Nidre appeal letter. I'm a curious guy and wondered how the heck did asking for donations come amidst all the solemn reflection in the Days of Awe? According to a Forward article written two decades ago, "at Kol Nidre services in October 1916, the Rev. Joseph Silverman of New York's prestigious Temple Emanu-El appealed to his auditors to do all [within] their power to aid Jewish [war] sufferers. On that occasion, and in the years that immediately followed, Silverman's words 'evoked an instant response,' inspiring his congregants — as well as those of other synagogues across the country — to raise hundreds of thousands of dollars in 'free-will offerings' in just one day". Over the decades, these Appeals took the long, winding road from those serving the Palestine Emergency Fund, the State of Israel and refugee resettlement to modern-day, synagogue-related needs, like repairing something in the building or – in our case – helping the budget move from red to black.

This appeal, the article says "sought to engage the hearts and pocketbooks of the entire congregation", men and women, the wealthy and those less so. It democratized the giving process just "at that one moment in the entire year when American Jewry [came] together to form a collective" in the synagogue. Thus it became a mitzvah, benefitting the whole congregational community. You'll hear my pitch on October first. It won't be as serious as this. Just don't ignore it at our own peril.

Operation Paperclip

by Annie Jacobsen

Sunday, Sept. 7, 2025

indomitable war machine. So began Operation Paperclip, a decades-long, covert project to bring Hitler's scientists and their families to the United States.

Many of these men were accused of war crimes, and other had stood trial at Nuremberg; one was convicted of mass murder and slavery. They were also directly responsible for major advances in rocketry, medical treatments, and the U.S. space program. Was Operation Paperclip a moral outrage, or did it help America win the Cold War?

Drawing on exclusive interviews with dozens of Paperclip family members, colleagues, and interrogators, and with access to German archival documents (including previously unseen papers made available by direct descendents of the Third Reich's ranking members), files obtained through the Freedom of Information Act, and dossiers discovered in government archives at Harvard University, Annie Jacobsen follows more than a dozen German scientists through their postwar lives and into a startling, complex, nefarious, and jealously guarded government secret of the twentieth century.

In this definitive, controversial look at one of America's most strategic, and disturbing government programs, Jacobsen shows just how dark government can get in the name of national security.

It is not necessary to have read the book to join the discussion.

Tashlich

Sunday, September 28, 2025
at the JCC Lake at 10:00 AM

On or before Rosh Hashanah it is tradition to go to a river or spring (preferably one that has fish in it) and recite special penitential prayers. Tossing bread crumbs in the water is symbolic of casting away our sins and starting a new year with a clean slate.

Bring your own bread and meet us at the JCC lake.

Kever Avot

Sunday, September 28, 2025
11:00 AM at Beth Shalom Cemetery

Kever Avot, the tradition of visiting the graves of our parents and loved ones between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, can evoke a wealth of emotions and memories.

We will meet at Beth Shalom Cemetery (420 Otter Creek Road, Oregon, Ohio) where Rabbi Marsh will assist those wanting special memorial prayers recited at the graves of their loved ones. If there is inclement weather, we will meet in the Chapel followed by Rabbi Marsh visiting individual graves at the cemetery.

LIVE STREAMING

How to access CBI Live Stream Services

On your Computer, Tablet or Cell Phone:

- Go to the CBI website, cbitoledo.org.
- At the top of the home page click on "Live Stream".
- When the page opens, you will be connected to the CBI live stream service.

On your Television:

You can also access the live stream services through your television if you have a "smart" TV, Roku or streaming stick which gives you access to YouTube.

- Click on the YouTube icon on your TV.
- When YouTube opens, search for "Congregation B'nai Israel - Sylvania, Ohio".
- Be sure to click on the listing that has the photo with Jewish star (see photo above).
- We recommend that you "subscribe" to the channel so you can easily locate the live stream for future services. We also highly recommend connecting to the live stream services on your TV as it is the most immersive and closest experience, short of being in the synagogue.

DONATING RELIGIOUS OBJECTS TO CBI

If you are downsizing your home, be aware that it is permissible to throw away old kippot. Unfortunately, we cannot accept old books on Jewish subjects from your library. We would be glad to receive your old prayer books, tallitot or other religious objects for burial.

PLEASE LET US KNOW

If you or someone you know is ill, or in the hospital and would appreciate a phone call from the Rabbi, please call the office at 419.517.8400. Due to HIPAA privacy regulations, hospitals do not notify clergy if a member is admitted.

Yahrzeit Notices...

If you are not receiving a yahrzeit notice for a friend or relative and would like one sent annually, please call the office at 419-517-8400. We will need the English date of death.

CONTRIBUTE ONLINE

If you would like to make a contribution to CBI and are unable to call during business hours, you can make your contribution on our website: cbitoledo.org

Click the "Contributions" tab on the navigation bar and follow the prompts for Online Contributions. For any questions, contact the office at 419.517.8400.

How to access CBI Zoom Programs & Services

- Check your email for the Zoom link and password for CBI Zoom services.
- Click on the link in the body of the email.
- If you have never used Zoom, you will be prompted to follow steps to download it on your computer.
- After that is successful, click on the link provided in the email, type in the provided password and you will be connected to the Zoom service.

A link and passcode will be emailed to congregants.
